

NORDIC
CHAMPIONSHIP
WOMEN | CS-GO

In December 2023, the first Nordic Championship for women in CS2 was held.

National teams from Sweden, Denmark, Iceland, Finland, and Norway participated. The format was "Round Robin," and the matches were played at Inferno Online and the World Culture Museum in Gothenburg. The production was managed by our association, Phoenix Blue.

With amazing teamwork we created a fun event with great atmosphere where everyone did their very best.

Unfortunately due to limited prepping time it left a lot to wish for. It led to last minute solutions, bad communications and missing elements. This was also evident from the feedback.

This is our vision for Women's Nordic Championship

An event that provides a professional esports experience for players and spectators.

The players should experience the same level of commodities as any other player on their level.

Since a lot of female players has bad experiences when it comes to esports event extra efforts should be made to show them we are different and there to support them.

To battle the lack of role models we should showcase talented female players. The initiative goes beyond professionals, involving women in talent roles, production, and event organization.

This is how we succeed

Over three days, we create a professional, complete esports experience for both players and spectators. Similar to other major esports tournaments, players enjoy an all-inclusive experience with access to dedicated team training rooms and high-quality equipment.

The arena is customized and provides a fantastic experience for both the players on-site, the spectators, and those following the matches from home.

To establish trust among players and sponsors while ensuring long-term continuity, we plan to develop a concept and model over the course of three years. This model will act as a solid foundation, designed to adapt and evolve in sync with the growth of esports.

With this in place we leave it in the care of the Nordic Esports Federation 2027.
